GETTING THERE

Train, bus and airport connections, the last stretch to the venue, and useful things to know before setting off.

The Kulturhaus sits by the Spree in Treptower Park. The venue recommends travelling by public transport.

PUBLIC TRANSPORT

- S-Bahn: Treptower Park or Plänterwald.
- Bus: 165, 166, 265 and N65. Nearby stops include Alt-Treptow, Rathaus Treptow and Bulgarische Straße.
- Plan the live journey with BVG journey planner or VBB journey planner.

Deadhead tip: arrive early and make the last part of the journey part of the experience. The pre-show meetups are in the venue beer garden.

ARRIVING BY AIR

Berlin Brandenburg Airport (BER) is connected to the city by the Airport Express (FEX), regional trains, S-Bahn and buses. The airport station is below Terminal 1. An ABC ticket is required for travel between BER and Berlin.

ARRIVING BY TRAIN OR COACH

From Berlin Hauptbahnhof or the central coach station, use the BVG or VBB planner for the best current connection to Treptower Park, Plänterwald or one of the nearby bus stops. Allow a little extra time for the short walk through the park.

COMING BY CAR

The venue lists free parking nearby and gives Bulgarische Straße 62, 12435 Berlin as the navigation address. The venue nevertheless recommends public transport.

BEFORE SETTING OFF

- Check live connections on the day.
- Keep your ticket link or PDF handy.
- Take a mighty fine stroll walk through the park and cross the fairytale bridge to the Kulturhaus island.
- If you are joining the aftershow, watch the group messages for the final shared-ride details.

PLACES TO STAY

Accommodation areas and local pointers to help you choose what works for you.

GRATEFUL HOUSING

We have arranged an affordable shared hostel room exclusively for Deadheads attending the shows.

Interested? Please contact the organizers directly via europe.deadheads@gmail.com Availability and final room arrangements should always be confirmed before travelling.

CHOOSING YOUR OWN BASE

When comparing hostels, hotels or apartments, look beyond straight-line distance. A convenient connection to Treptower Park, Plänterwald or Berlin's eastern inner-city transport network can be more useful than staying a little closer with awkward transfers.

AROUND TOWN

Local transport, food, practical tips and the small details that make arriving somewhere new feel less unfamiliar.

BEFORE THE SHOWS

The Inselgarten offers drinks, regional food and Spree views when open. It is also the official meeting point for our pre-show gatherings.

- Friday: from 6:30 pm
- Saturday: from 5 pm

No elaborate plan is needed: come early, find the other Heads, grab a drink and ease into the show.

A GRATEFUL SUNDAY AT MAUERPARK?

If you are staying on Sunday, Mauerpark is an easy recommendation. Its Sunday flea market runs from 10 am to 6 pm, with second-hand finds, old vinyl records, food and drinks. The park's Bearpit Karaoke is commonly held on Sunday afternoons from spring to autumn, but as an outdoor community event it is worth checking locally on the day.

FELLOW TRAVELLERS

Ways to connect with other people heading to the same show, exchange tips and explore travelling together by mutual agreement.

The best part of a Grateful Trip is not travelling alone. If you would like to connect before the shows, join Grateful Housing, explore shared travel or simply find out who else is coming by reaching out through the Europe Deadheads community. Everything is non-commercial, informal and by mutual agreement. Please confirm arrangements directly with the people involved, especially accommodation, rides and meeting points.
